

Chair of French Linguistics
University of Neuchâtel

Department of Language and Information Sciences
University of Lausanne

TheorLing 2020

Theoretical linguistics in the light of the interaction of qualitative and quantitative approaches

International Symposium

University of Neuchâtel

3-4 June 2020

Call for papers

Extended Deadline for submissions: February 29th 2020

Confirmed keynote speakers:

Sascha Diwersy (Université Paul Valéry – Montpellier)

Barbara McGillivray (Alan Turing Institute & Cambridge University)

Bernhard Wälchli (Stockholm University)

The core interest of this conference is to identify the place of theoretical linguistics in the last decade, when the use of quantitative methods in the humanities has grown exponentially. The international conference aims to bring together researchers working on both qualitative research and quantitative analysis taking into account statistical calculations and computational methods. The expected results are:

- a better understanding of how theoretical linguistics is being rethought in the light of quantitative methods
- a more precise and complete view of the theoretical linguistic reflections behind quantitative linguistics
- a profitable exchange of methods and quantitative tools tested in research already carried out
- an overview of future research prospects in quantitative corpus linguistics
- present and future gains for theoretical linguistics

Submissions must highlight the interaction of theoretical and quantitative linguistics

Possible topics may include:

- modality
- TAM markers
- discourse markers
- cohesion markers
- phraseology

in relation to theoretical questions such as:

- diachronic variation
- genre variation
- linguistic change
- representation of meaning

Proposals, in French or English, must be maximum 500 words (not including bibliography and annexes). They must be sent, together with a short bio-bibliography, to: theorling2020unine@gmail.com, by February 29th 2020 at the latest. Authors of accepted papers will be notified by March 30th 2020.

Registration fees: 100 €

After the conference, a selection of contributions will be submitted for publication.

The conference is sponsored by the Faculty of Humanities, Chair of French Linguistics, University of Neuchâtel and by the Faculty of Humanities, Department of Language and Information Sciences, University of Lausanne.

Organization committee: Jessica Chessex (University of Neuchâtel), Paola Marongiu (University of Lausanne), Dennis Wandel (University of Neuchâtel)

Scientific committee: Helena Bermudez Sabel (University of Lausanne), Francesca Dell'Oro (University of Lausanne) Guillaume Guex (University of Lausanne) Claudia Ricci (University of Neuchâtel), Corinne Rossari (University of Neuchâtel), Iveta Walther (University of Neuchâtel), Aris Xanthos (University of Lausanne)